THE AMERICAN MOVEMENT.

On Thursday, in Virginia City, the Republican State Central Committee took a square stand on the question of restricting European and Asiatic emigration to this country, and passed a resolution intended as an addendum to the resolution passed by the National Committee, and a suggestion to the Republican State Convention.

This movement, now becoming general all over the United States, and inaugurated by the Republican party, is not intended to restrict the privileges of any foreigner now in the United States who obeys the laws and who is able to earn his own living.

The proposition is founded on the fact potent to everybody, that this country is sufficiently populated to dispense with the influx of any more foreign blood. In fact, the tide of immigration, which has set in so steadily for the past twenty-five years, has caused a surplus of laborers, and this surplus is now fighting with American labor over the bone of wages.

The Chinese coming in on the one side and the pauper labor of Europe on the other, devour American industry with a competition so sharp that the American laborer used to good food, clean sheets, decent clothes and a tidy room, finds himself barred from employment, while the dirty, ill-kept, low-browed, half-starved refuse of the old world steps into the workshop which he has been obliged to vacate.

The only class at all benefitted by making this country a waste dump of the penitentiaries and poor houses of Europe, is the sleek corporations whose aim is to secure work at the lowest possible rates. Yet these people are getting enough business sense through their heads to see that while imported labor will work for almost nothing at the start, it always constitutes a discontented, turbulent class, who would rather strike and riot than work, and these strikes and riots soon entail a loss to the employer far greater than the difference in the wages of the foreign pauper and Socialist and the honest American workman.

The American plank in the National platform will draw to its support the better class of foreigners who are now seeking sustenance in the United States, and as soon as the other class realize that they can cut off the competition from the old world it will appeal to the selfish side of their natures and they will readily fall in line.

THE CHINESE TREATY.

The new treaty with the Chinese is expected to do great things towards restricting Chinese immigration, but we doubt it. Its provisions are fourfold. The first provides that only such laborers shall be granted return certificates as can prove that they have property worth $1,000 or a family in this country; the second provides for the admission of merchants; the third provides for the payment of damages to Chinese who have been expelled from various California towns, and the fourth makes the duration of the treaty twenty years.

We think the cunning Chinese will evade the treaty. When a Chinaman swears that he has a family and $1,000 in this country, and his testimony is substantiated by half a dozen witnesses, he will go through. When he swears he is a merchant he will go through. The Chinese Companies will make out $1,000 certificates of deposit in favor of the Chinese who want to land, and present them as evidence. A lot of Chinese prostitutes will swear that they belong to the applicant's family. After the Chinaman lands the certificates of deposit will be destroyed and the witnesses will disappear. If these things fail the merchant dodge will prevail.

—There are three dead trees in Tattnall county, Ga., whose branches are so twisted as to form the figures of 1888. The ignorant people thereabouts regard it as a sign that the end of the world comes this year.

A Home Lottery.

Ike Isaacs has cut the legal knot that prevents a lottery running openly in Nevada. He runs a big keno game with a $450 pot, and sells tickets for $5, coupons $1.

Keno is a licensed game, and the authorities can't touch it.

Thus does Ike Isaacs walk over the Constitution of Nevada with a smiling face, and the public all stand in.

His next drawing comes off Sunday evening, April 8th, and anyone wanting to patronize a home lottery can communicate with Ike Isaacs, Delta Keno Parlor, Virginia City. The game is on a solid business basis, and the citizens of the Comstock say "it fills a long-felt want."

Characteristic Check.

With its old time cheek Washoe county came into the Republican Central Committee at Virginia City on Thursday and wanted a greater representation in the State Convention. It wanted the apportionment based on the Congressional vote, but took mighty good care not to ask it on the Legislative vote. A county which comes in for a raise of representation ought to be able to show a clean score. This idea of Washoe Republicans picking out just what happens to suit them and ignoring the balance, is getting played out in Republican circles in this State.

Hard to Believe.

In a private letter from Washington, occurs the following: "For some days a rumor has been current here, that Cleveland has written a letter which is now in the hands of ex-Mayor Cooper, of New York, who is authorized to make it public whenever he sees fit, in which he declines to allow his name to be used for the nomination, and further, that he could not accept the nomination if it should be tendered him."
